The Whitsundays Weather and Seasons Guide

Experience sunshine, sea breezes, and year-round adventure.

☀️ Tropical Climate All Year

The Whitsunday Islands enjoy warm, inviting weather throughout the year. With clear blue skies, balmy sea breezes, and an average temperature around 27 °C, it's no wonder the region is loved by visitors from across the world.

There are two main seasons:

- Dry Season (May–October) – clear days, light winds, and calm seas.
- Wet Season (November–April) – lush green landscapes, tropical rain showers, and warm ocean water.

Even during the wet months, the sun often shines between passing showers, and the sea stays perfect for swimming and sailing.

🌴 Average Temperatures

- Summer (Dec–Mar): 28–31 °C days, 24–25 °C nights
- Winter (Jun–Aug): 22–25 °C days, 18–19 °C nights
- Water temperature: 25–28 °C all year

You can dive, snorkel, or relax by the beach any time — the Whitsundays are always warm enough to enjoy the ocean.

🌦️ Rainfall and Sunshine

Most of the rainfall arrives between December and March, helping to create the region's lush rainforests and waterfalls. The driest months are September and October, which often bring the clearest skies and calmest conditions for reef tours.

Expect around 8–10 hours of sunshine daily, and remember — tropical weather can change quickly, so pack for both sunshine and the occasional shower.

🐋 When to Visit

Every season offers something special:

- May–October: Ideal for reef and sailing tours, low humidity, and perfect visibility underwater.

- June–September: Humpback whale season see mothers and calves playing in the warm waters.
- November–April: Warm ocean swims, green rainforest walks, and fewer crowds.

💡 Local tip: Morning reef tours usually have the calmest seas and best light for photography.

🧥 What to Pack

Dry Season:

- Light clothing and a jacket for evenings
- Hat, sunglasses, reef-safe sunscreen

Wet Season:

- Quick-dry clothing and sandals
- Light rain jacket and insect repellent
- Waterproof phone or camera case

No matter when you visit, bring your sense of adventure and plenty of memory cards for photos!

🌊 Weather Quick Facts
